LAW No. 2023 - 002 on investments in Madagascar

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

The vision of the "Initiative for the Emergence of Madagascar" implies that the business environment is both attractive and safe for all investors, whether national or foreign. This new challenge requires close collaboration between stakeholders at central and local level and calls for a new legal framework on investments.

While Law No. 2007-036 of 14 January 2008 on investments in Madagascar is the legal reference instrument for investments made in Madagascar, it needs to be updated in order to meet the expectations of public and private sector actors and to align with international good investment practices.

The result of an inclusive approach to which the public and private sectors have made a significant contribution, the law is a middle ground between the necessary safeguarding of national sovereignty and the imperative need to attract investors, both domestic and international. Thus, the spirit and the letter of this law are in line with this legitimate concern to find a balance between national interests and the need to attract national and foreign investors, as the national savings rate alone cannot ensure sustainable economic growth that will have a significant impact on the Malagasy population. This spirit is reflected in ensuring the full integration of domestic investors within the framework of an incentive-based and effective investment policy. Then, amendments are made in the direction of national sovereignty such as land tenure and national preference. Finally, the spirit of this law is, on the one hand, to attract investments that respect Malagasy regulations as well as local habits and customs and, on the other hand, to bring the legislation up to international standards to secure investments without stripping or weakening the sovereignty of the State.

For this reason, the objectives of this Act are to:

- maintain the progress of Law No. 2007-036 of 14 January 2008 on investments in Madagascar while making improvements and updates;
- Establish a clear legal framework for investment, which will govern both domestic and foreign investors, without favouring any particular category of investors;
- to ensure a balance between the rights and obligations of the State and those of investors while preserving the State's normative freedom;
- harmonize the Investment Law with the various sectoral laws as well as with the international agreements and treaties relating to the promotion and protection of investment to which Madagascar is a party;
- to establish an attractive and secure business climate in Madagascar in order to establish national and foreign investment as a pillar of emergence and thus to catch up with the country's development lag and allow the country's "fanorenana ifotony";
- Prioritizing institutional and procedural transparency.

Thus, the present law provides clarifications to Law No. 2007-036 in order to overcome the inaccuracies and ambiguities noted and by introducing a number of new features to meet the expectations of stakeholders as well as the requirements of a Malagasy legal framework in line with international investment standards.

The most significant aspects of this Act focus mainly on the following:

- 1- clarification of the provisions of Law No. 2007-036 relating to the definitions of the concepts of "investment" and "investor" (Article 1); the scope of the law (Article 2); and activities closed to foreign investors (Article 3);
 - 2- the increased consideration of the interests of the Malagasy State by: the introduction of provisions on investors' obligations (Articles 22 to 24) including social and environmental responsibility; clarification of stability provisions (Article 20); the clarification of the provisions on the settlement of disputes (Articles 25 to 28) and the introduction of a provision on the consent of the State to arbitration granted on a case-by-case basis (Article 27);
 - 3- As national investors are the best "ambassadors" of Madagascar's attractiveness, this law enshrines the alignment of domestic investors with foreign investors by establishing a clear and attractive legal framework. In this regard, the law clearly states that it applies to all investors, including domestic investors (Article 2), introduces a definition of domestic investor alongside foreign investor (Article 1) and enshrines clearer and more consistent provisions on dispute settlement (Articles 25 to 28);
 - 4- the clarification of the conditions for the establishment of foreign investors by detailing the provisions relating to visas in view of the confusions generated by Law No. 2007-036 (Articles 11 to 15) and the maintenance of options relating to foreign investors' access to land. (Articles 18 and 19);
 - 5- the clarification and formal enshrinement of the main principles of investment law, namely equal treatment (Article 4), fair and equitable treatment (Article 5), protection of property rights including guarantees against direct and indirect expropriation (Article 6) and freedom of transfer (Article 7).
- These principles of international investment law, the application of which is strictly regulated by this law, make it possible to meet the objectives of the law in terms of finding a balance between maintaining the State's normative freedom and protecting investors.

This Act is divided into 35 sections and ten (10) chapters:

2-2. "Portfolio investment" means an investment that represents less than 10% of the company's share capital or an investment that does not exercise effective control over the company or significant influence over the company.

2-3. "Expropriation of an investment" means any act by which the State compels an investor to transfer ownership of his investment to the State, or in the absence of any formal transfer of ownership, any other measure or series of measures having an equivalent effect characterized by a substantial deprivation of the investor of the fundamental attributes of his right to property.

It is presumed to exercise this control when it holds, directly or indirectly, a fraction of the voting rights greater than 40% and no other partner or shareholder holds, directly or indirectly, a fraction greater than its own.

Article 2: Scope of application

This Act lays down the general regime of ordinary law applicable to direct investments made in Madagascar by all natural or legal persons, national or foreign.

CHAPTER II INVESTMENT PRINCIPLES

Article 3: Freedom of investment

Any natural or legal person, of Malagasy or foreign nationality, is free to invest and settle in the national territory, in compliance with the laws and regulations in force.

However, all activities provided for by legal provisions, such as gold panning, artisanal mining and small-scale fishing, are reserved for domestic investors.

Article 4: Equal treatment

Subject to reciprocity and without prejudice to the exceptions that may be contained in sectoral laws or bilateral, regional or international agreements or treaties to which Madagascar is a party, as well as Articles 3 and 18 of this Law, investors, regardless of their nationality, in comparable situations shall receive identical treatment in terms of management, and sale or other disposal of the investment.

The concept of "comparable situations" requires an examination of all the circumstances in which an investment is made.

The term "treatment" referred to in this article applies to both investors and their investments. The application of Articles 3 (2) and 18 (1) of this Law, and of the agreements or treaties referred to above, shall not confer on the foreign investor the right to compensation for any competitive disadvantage he may suffer.

Article 5: Fair and equitable treatment

Investments made in the territory of Madagascar, as defined in article 1 of this Law, and subject to reciprocity with regard to foreign investors, shall enjoy fair and equitable treatment protecting them against arbitrary, manifestly inequitable, unjust or discriminatory State measures or series of measures. The obligation to ensure fair and equitable treatment of investors and their investments does not prevent the State from amending and adapting its legislation in accordance with the provisions of this article.

Article 6: Protection of property rights

1- The State guarantees respect for individual or collective property rights.

The State may not nationalize or expropriate an investment, directly or indirectly, by means of measures amounting to nationalization or expropriation, unless the following conditions are cumulatively met:

- a) the measures are taken in the public interest and in accordance with due legal procedure;
- b) the measures are not discriminatory or contrary to the principles of investor protection enshrined in this law;
- c) The measures shall be taken subject to the payment of fair, prior and effective compensation.

The expropriation of immovable property in the public interest is subject to the applicable regulations in force. Any other expropriation, regardless of its form, shall be subject to the provisions of this Act.

2- Indirect expropriation occurs when a measure or series of measures have an effect equivalent to a direct expropriation, in that they substantially deprive the investor of the fundamental attributes of ownership, of his investment, including the right to use, enjoy, and dispose of his investment, without there being a formal transfer of title to the property.

3- In order to determine whether a measure or a series of measures constitute indirect expropriation, a factual examination carried out by the competent court defined in Articles 25 to 28 of this Law shall be made on the basis of the following factors:

- a) the economic effects of the measure or series of measures at issue, it being understood that the fact that the measure or series of measures has an adverse effect on the economic value of an investment is not in itself sufficient to establish that there has been indirect expropriation;
- b) the extent to which the measure or series of measures in question undermines the legitimate expectations underlying the investment;
- c) the nature of the measure or series of measures.

4- However, non-discriminatory regulatory measures that are designed and applied for the legitimate purpose of protecting public welfare, including public health, safety and the environment, do not constitute expropriation.

5- The compensation must be equal to the fair market value of the investment in question immediately before the date on which the expropriation, nationalization or similar action was taken.

The fair market value of the investment is determined on the basis of the following criteria:

- going concern value;
- the value of the assets, including the declared tax value of tangible property; and
- any other criteria necessary to calculate fair market value, as appropriate.

The calculation of the fair market value excludes any indirect or immaterial damage or speculative or exceptional profits alleged by the investor, including moral damages and loss of goodwill. It will not take into account any change in value resulting from the fact that the expropriation or the proposed measure was already known.

6- The allowance shall be paid in national currency. Conversion and transfer abroad shall be subject to the provisions of the foreign exchange regulations in force as well as those provided for in Article 7 of this Law.

Where the compensation is fixed and is not paid or deposited within six months of the act of expropriation or the date of service of the final court decision, interest at the civil rate shall automatically accrue on expiry of that period.

7- The investor affected by the expropriation has the right to have his case and the amount of the expropriation compensation examined by a judicial authority or any other independent and impartial authority, which may order a preliminary expert opinion for the assessment of the expropriation compensation.

Article 7: Freedom of transfer

1- Contributions of share capital, within the framework of foreign direct investment in Malagasy territory, are free and may be made without conditions of approval or authorization of investment by any natural or legal person in compliance with the laws and regulations in force. Any foreign investor shall be

...legal person in compliance with the laws and regulations in force. Any foreign investor shall be allowed to freely transfer abroad without prior authorization any payments relating to current operations, including profits, dividends, royalties, management fees and payments of damages resulting from a judgment or award made under Articles 26 and 27 of this Law.

2- The salary income, allowances, fees and savings of expatriate employees can be freely transferred abroad without prior authorisation.

3- Transfers of shares, shares, business assets or assets, liquidation bonus shares, expropriation indemnities for foreign investors are free but must be declared to the Ministry of Finance.

4- Other capital transactions and financial transactions not provided for in paragraph 3 above remain subject to prior authorization by the Minister of Finance.

5- These transfers can only be made through authorised intermediaries and in freely convertible currencies.

6- The above provisions apply subject to:

a) the broader rights and benefits to which the investor is entitled under agreements or treaties concluded between the Republic of Madagascar and other partner countries;

b) Restrictions on the movement of capital that are regularly enacted, in particular to ensure the payment of fines, penalties and court judgments against the investor or his investment.

CHAPTER III REGISTRATION AND COMPANY DEEDS

Article 8: Registration of companies

Any creation of a company in Madagascar requires its registration with the Trade and Companies Register as well as with the competent administrations.

The creation of a company implies that at least one of the corporate officers is resident in Madagascar, whether he or she is of Malagasy nationality or of foreign nationality and holds an immigrant visa or a valid immigrant visa receipt.

No publication in the written press is required as part of the company's registration.

Article 9: Registration of company deeds

With the exception of deeds recording the formation, continuation, transformation or dissolution of a company, the amendment of the articles of association, deeds of transfer of shares or shares, the increase, depreciation or reduction of its capital, the enjoyment of immovable property, company deeds are not necessarily subject to the formality of tax registration.

These acts are admissible as they stand by all administrative services and in particular by the Trade and Companies Register. The particulars of the documents produced and, in particular, the date with which they are affixed, shall be authentic, as the case may be, until the contrary is proved or until a forgery is registered, depending on the legal nature of the document.

Article 10: Absence of the obligation to legalize signatures

Contracts, deeds, minutes or documents relating to investments, requiring the completion of an administrative formality of registration, transcription, publication, filing or otherwise, are not subject to any legalization procedure or acknowledgement of the signature of the parties.

The authenticity of the signatures bearing them is authentic until proven otherwise. This provision shall not apply to agreements which record the transfer by sale of immovable property or the creation of long-term leases.

Article 11: Investor Category Visa

An "Investor Visa" is granted to any foreign investor within the meaning of this law, who is a partner or shareholder of a local company under the conditions defined by this law and the immigration laws in force. The employment contracts of expatriate employees may derogate from certain provisions of the Labour Code and social regulations with regard to:

- affiliation to an Occupational Medical Service;
